As we enter the mid-2020s our clients are grappling with a Planning system mired in complexity and are often encountering hugely frustrating delays in the adoption of Local Plans and the determination of planning applications. All the while, our clients are trying to navigate their way through the shifting sands of the policy landscape and the evolving requirements of the decarbonisation and active travel agendas.

I've been incredibly lucky to have worked on some hugely stimulating and rewarding projects across the country since joining i-Transport in 2010: from the regeneration of land around Wembley Stadium and safeguarded wharves on the River Thames, to the provision of new concept Motorway Services Areas on both the M1 and M62, modern logistics and business parks at key locations on the Strategic Road Network and sustainable urban extensions from Northampton all the way north to Newcastle-upon-Tyne.

Those experiences, coupled with the extensive expertise and technical skills we have across the Practice, mean that we are well placed to help our clients meet the challenges that confront the development industry and to assist unlocking these opportunities.

As I take up my role as a Partner of i-Transport I'm looking forward to working with you all to deliver your visions. Please do get in touch to discuss how we can help you move forward.

Despite these obvious challenges there are big opportunities in front of us – particularly in the North of England and the Midlands – to unlock sites and deliver much needed homes and transformational development schemes that will improve people's lives. We're proud to already be involved in some really exciting schemes across these regions.
